BANGOR WHIG.

JOHN S. SAYWARD, Editor.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 18, 1841.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate on Monday, Mr. Benton introduced a resolution as a substitute for Mr. Bayard's to rescind the Expunging resolution. It was moved it be printed and be laid on the table till the next session, which was carried. The Senate went into executive session and confirmed the nominations mentioned in another place.

In the House there was no business. Mr. Marshall submitted a proposition to print extra copies of the President's second veto and addressed the House for an hour and a half and then withdrew his motion. Mr. Everett from the joint committee reported that the President had no further communication to make to Congress and the House at half past eight o'clock adjourned sine die. Thus has ended a busy session of Congress.

Animal Magnetism at the City Hall, goes ahead twelve inches one day and falls back a foot the next. It attracts attention nevertheless, and if it is a hoobug its sublimity gives it a sort of respectability.

Major Isaac Roach it is said has been nominated to the Senate by the President as Treasurer of the Mint at Philadelphia, in the room of Ex Governor Rutter, whose nomination was withdrawn.

We learn that a two legged brute mangled a sheep belonging to one of our citizens, with a jack-knife, while she was grazing in the owner's field. Such conduct deserves the severest penalties of a severe code, and the rascal may think himself fortunate to escape the harshest he so richly deserves.

The alarm of fire to day noon was occasioned by the roof of Mr. Hamlin's Block taking fire by a spark from the chimney. The water did forty times as much damage as the fire.

At the election of company officers in the seventh ward militia, on Friday last, the following persons were elected.

John Stevens, Jr. Captain
Ephraim Moore, Lieutenant
Z. B. Washburn, Ensign.

Mr. Webster has written a letter to the editors of the National Intelligencer which we shall endeavor to publish on Monday.

At the election at Fish River, the majority in favor of the Whig ticket was 51. The Whig Representative is probably elected.

The long letter of Mr. Ewing, obliges us to defer the continuation of the "Ladies' Fair" in this number.

Charles A. Wickliffe has been nominated and confirmed as Postmaster General.

ANIMAL MAGNETISM.

There are always doubtless. There are some who are so constituted that they will not believe anything. As our citizens have now an opportunity of becoming acquainted with what by a most charitable courtesy, is called the science of Animal Magnetism, it may be well to afford them a knowledge of the conditions required by its friends and advocates for a belief in its power, as furnished by M. Dejoux, who has been denominated by them as "the Nestor of Animal Magnetism."

The only real and sole conclusion is that which results from our own experience. The way to be convinced of Animal Magnetism is to magnetise. The exercise of Magnetism requires no active desire to do good. A firm belief in its power. An entire confidence in employing it. It is subject to repel all doubts, desire success and act with simplicity and attention. Forget for a time all your knowledge of physics and metaphysics. Rouse from your mind all objections that may occur. Know magnetism before inquisitive persons. Do not reason for six weeks after you have commenced the study."

Such are the rules of the magnetic oracle. To that may be added an quacklike assurance in imperturbable sudsity on the part of the manipulator. lucky blunders on the part of the persons manipulated and on part of the spectators a quiet and unsuspicous credulity and a reasonless faith, which will take a complete failure as conclusive proof of triumphant success. These conditions granted and by strenuous effort, perhaps one may believe at any rate, he is in a good condition for trying.

IMPROVEMENT.

On being presented with a twig of the Arbor Vite

Fidelity is woman's dear delight.

Like the noon-day sun, but much more bright.

It casts when towering monuments decay;

Let ages pass, and still it gladdens me.

Yes, it remains, when memory is forgot.

True of life; so verdant and so true.

Sweet emblem of her with eyes so blue;

That you can bring her image to my view.

"Why did I love me? Curious soul be still!

Phantom thoughts, sweet, demon fier;

That she should come to love, to live for me.

Then never fear, she'll always constant be.

As little, twig, I'll ever think of thee.

REV. J. C.

Emblem of Fidelity.

Frontier Despatches have been received from Col. Worth, stating that he has seized the British with their of his best warriors. They are for an interview, when Col. Worth became satisfied their intentions were for iron-pants, and secured them at once. He released them on probation that they would have their entire people, 300 in number assembled on the Caloosahatchie by the 11th Sept.

REV. J. C.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, Sept. 11, 1841.

Sirs: After the most calm and careful consideration, and viewing the subject in all the aspects in which it presents itself to my mind, I have come to the conclusion that I ought to remain a member of your Cabinet. I therefore resign the office of Secretary of the Treasury, and beg you to accept this as my letter of resignation.

To avoid any misunderstanding, I distinctly declare that I do not consider a difference of opinion as to the charter of a National Bank a sufficient reason for dissolving the ties which have existed between us. I thought it took upon that measure as one of vast importance to the prosperity of the country, and though I should have deeply deplored your inability or unwillingness to accede to the wishes of the People and the States, so unequivocally expressed through their Representatives, still, upon this and the other controlling circumstances, I should not have left bound to remain in the place which I hold in your administration. But those controlling circumstances do exist, and I will in my own satisfaction, place the following on before you.

It is but just to you to say that the bill which first passed the two houses of Congress, and which was returned with your objections on the 16th of August, did never in progress, as far as I know or believe, receive at any time either your express or implicit assent. So far as that bill was known to me, or as I was consulted upon it, I endeavored to bring to your provisions as nearly as possible in accordance with what I understood to be your views, and rather hoped than expected your approval. I knew the extent to which you were committed on the subject.

I knew the perfectly with which you adhered to your expressed opinions, and I dreaded from the first the most disastrous consequences when the project of compromise which I presented at an early day was rejected.

It is equally matter of justice to you, and myself, to say, that the bill when I reported it to the two Houses of Congress at the commencement of the Session, in obedience to their call was modified so as to meet your approbation. You may not, it is true, have read the bill through, and examined every part of it; but the 16th fundamental article, which became the contested question of principle, was freely discussed between us, and it was understood and unequivocally sanctioned by yourself. The last clause in the bill, also, which contained a reservation of power in Congress, was inserted on the 9th of June, in your presence, and with your approbation, though you at one time told me that to giving your sanction to the bill, you would accompany it with an explanation of your understanding of that first clause.

In the condition of things, though I greatly regretted your veto of the bill as it passed the two Houses of Congress, and though I foresaw the excitement and agitation which it would produce among the people, yet, considering the changes which the bill had undergone in its passage, and its variance from the one you had agreed to sanction, I could not find in that act enough to disturb the confidential relations which existed between us. I was disposed to attribute this act, fraught with mischief as it was, to pure and honorable motives, and to a conscientious conviction on your part that the bill, in some of its provisions, conflicted with the constitution. But that opinion of your course on the bill which has just been returned to Congress with your second veto, I do not and cannot entertain. Recur to what has passed between us with respect to it, and you will at once perceive that such opinion is impossible.

On the morning of the 10th of August, I called at your chamber, and found you preparing the first veto message, to be dispatched to the Senate. The Secretary of war came in also, and you read a portion of the message to us. He observed that, though the veto would create a great sensation in Congress, yet he thought the minds of our friends better prepared for it than they were some days ago, and he hoped it would be calmly received, especially as it did not shut out all hope of a bill. To this you replied that you really thought there ought to be no difficulty about it, that you had sufficiently indicated that you had sufficiently indicated that you had sufficiently indicated that you would approve, and that Congress might, if they saw fit, pass such a one in three days.

The 15th being the day for our regular Cabinet meeting, we assembled, all except Messrs Crittenden and Granger, and you told us that you had had a long conversation with Messrs Berrien and Sergeant, who professed to come in behalf of the Whigs of the two Houses to endeavor to strike out some measure which would be generally acceptable. That you had your doubts about the propriety of conversing with them yourself, and thought it more proper that you should communicate with them through your constitutional advisers. You expressed a wish that the whole subject should be postponed till the next session of Congress. You spoke of the delay in the Senate of the consideration of your veto message, and expressed anxiety as to the time and temper which the debate would assume.

Mr. Badger said that on inquiry he was happy to find that the best temper prevailed in the two Houses. He believed they were perfectly ready to take up the bill reported by the Secretary of the Treasury, and pass it at once. You replied, "Talk not to me of Mr. Ewing's bill; it contains that odious feature of local discounts which I have repudiated in my message." I then said to you, I have no doubt, sir, that the House, having ascertained your views, will pass a bill in conformity to them, provided, they can be satisfied that it would answer the purposes of the Treasury, and relieve the country. You then said, "Cannot my Cabinet see that this is brought about? You must stand by me in this emergency. Cannot you see that a bill passes Congress, such as I can approve, without inconsistency?" I declared again my belief that such a bill might be passed. And you then said to me, "What do you understand to be my opinions? State them, so that I may see that there is no misapprehension about them."

I then said that I understood you to be of opinion that Congress might charter a bank in the District of Columbia, giving it its location here. To this you assented. That they might almighty such bank to establish offices in distant and remote parts of the several States, with the assent of the States. To this you replied, "Don't name discounts, they have been the source of the most abominable corruptions, and are wholly unnecessary to enable the bank to discharge its duties to the country and the Government."

I observed in reply that I was proposing nothing, but simply endeavoring to state what I had understood to be your opinion as to the powers which Congress might constitutionally confer on a bank; that on that point I stood corrected. I then proceeded to say that I understood you to be of opinion that Congress might authorise such bank to establish agencies in the several States with power to deal in bills of exchange, without the assent of the states to which you replied, "Yes, if they be foreign bills, or bills drawn in one State and payable in another. That is all the power necessary for transmitting the public funds and regulating exchanges and the currency."

Mr. Webster then expressed, in strong terms, his opinion that such a charter would雪all all therefore, could not be, and you were not, to any unprepared question. The bill which I reported it to you, with the bill at the commencement of the session, the clause relating to a bank, and the power deal in exchanges as strongly developed as one you rejected, and equally without the consent of the States. You referred, and with some probation, to that clause, many days after, in a conversation held in the Department. A bill was sanctioned in it in particular bill was detailed above. And no doubt was thrown out upon the subject by you in my hearing or with in my knowledge, until the letter of Mr. Poole came to your hands. Soon after the reading of that letter, you threw out strong intimation that you would veto the bill if it were not passed. That letter I did, and do most unequivocally condemn, but it did not affect the constitutionality of the bill, or justify you in rejecting it on that ground; it could effect only the expediency of your action; and, whatever you may now believe as to the scruples existing in your mind, in this and in a kindred source, there is strong ground to believe they have their origin.

If I be right in this, and I doubt not I am, here is a great public measure demanded by the country, passed upon and approved by the representatives of the States and the People, rejected by you as President on grounds having no origin in conscience, and no reference to the public good. The rejection of this measure, too, continues the curse with the sword in the hands of the Executive, from which we strove to wrest it in the contest which elevated your predecessor and you to power. I cannot concur in this course of policy. In or out of office, my opinions remain unchanged. I cannot abandon the principles for which, during all my political career, I have struggled, especially I cannot be one of the instruments by which the Executive wields these combined, accumulated, and dangerous powers.

These, sir, are the reasons for the important step which I have felt it my duty to take, and I submit them as its justification. I am, very respectfully, yours, T. E. WING.

CONFIRMATIONS BY THE SENATE.

EDWARD EVERETT. The confirmation of Mr. Everett, though one of the most just, is one of the most pleasing events of the Extra Session. We shall ever honor the patriotic and intelligent Whig senators from the South, who refused to make this intensely important and National question, one of party or sectional character.

WILLIAM BUNSTER, (now charge d'Affairs,) to be Minister Plenipotentiary to Rio Janeiro.

ROBERT W. WALSH, Secretary of Legation to the same.

WILLIAM BULWARK, of Va. Charge d'Affairs to Naples.

MAJ. S. CHURCHILL, to be Inspector Gen. of the Army, in the place of Gen. Wool, promoted.

Mr. Tracy has been confirmed in the office in Philadelphia, for which Mr. Bela Badger was rejected.

COL. T. D. UNITED STATES MINISTER PLENIPOTENTIARY TO THE COURT OF ST. PETERSBURG, sailed from NEW YORK on Friday in the splendid ship Stephen Whitney.

NAVAL APPOINTMENTS — Lieut. J. S. Paine, has been promoted to the rank of commander Joseph Stockbridge, of Maine, to be chaplain.

THE Louisville Star tells the following story, which made us laugh in spite of ourselves. "My dinner doesn't agree with me," said a man to his wife after an extraordinarily hearty meal. "I don't blame it, my dear, I expected as much when I saw you joining it so hard."

A LITTLE LAND WELL TILLED. It is stated in the Albany Cultivator, that Samuel Palmer, of Goshen county, raised last year, on five acres of ground, 600 bushels of corn, (in the ear) 480 bushels of pumpkins, 300 bushels of Turnips, and 240 bushels of Potatoes.

CONSUMPTION

DR. ALLEN'S BALSAM of Hoehound, Liverwort, and Pleurisy Root, for CONSUMPTION AND LIVER COMPLAINT, Colds, Coughs, Sputting of Blood, Coughs, Asthma, Difficulty of Breathing, Pain in the Side, Palpitation of the Heart, Oppression and Soreness of the Chest, Pleurisy, Hectic Fever, Night Sweats, Difficult and Profuse Expectoration, and all affections of the Chest, Lungs and Liver.

The Hoehound, Liverwort, and Pleurisy Root have for centuries been celebrated in the cure of diseases of the Lungs and Liver.

Dr. B. D. Allen, after a series of experiments, has been able to extract from these medical herbs a balsam, which exerts a most wonderful effect in curing Consumption and Liver Complaint, and all other diseases of the Lungs and Chest. So great has become the reputation of Dr. Allen's Balsam that it is now used in the New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore Hospitals, and in the private practice of our most eminent medical men.

For children laboring under Inflammation of the Lungs, Colds, Coughs, Croup, Quinsy, and Sore Throat this Balsam is of great importance. The number of deaths among children from these diseases is truly alarming. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves much trouble, anxiety, and expense, let them procure Dr. B. D. Allen's Balsam; and whenever a child has taken cold, has any fever, cough, or hoarseness, give a teaspooonful of this medicine, and repeat it if necessary; even one teaspooonful will often effect an entire cure. During the winter of 1839, rising of one thousand families employed this remedy in the city of New York. The consequence was, that the number of deaths among children was reduced in less than one-half the usual number, as may be seen by the city inspector's report of deaths.

In order to give the reader some idea of the efficacy of this Balsam, and how extensively it is used, we here introduce the monthly report of the cures it performed in the month of May, 1839, as furnished us by the agent, and published in the New York Sun.

Monthly Report of the cures performed by Dr. B. D. Allen's Balsam of Hoehound, Liverwort and Pleurisy Root during the month of May. It has cured and completed the cure of —

Consumption in 1121 cases.

Dyspepsia 195 "

Asthma 91 "

Palpitation of the Heart 87 "

The number of Colds and Coughs cured by this medicine are too numerous to report.

CAUTION Purchase now unless it has a Certificate of Copyright of wrapper and label, and the written signature of B. D. ALLEN, M. D.

OPINIONS OF THE MEDICAL FACULTY.

At a meeting of the Medical Society of Washington County, the following Resolution was unanimously passed:

Resolved. That from a knowledge of the composition of Dr. Allen's Balsam of Hoehound, Liverwort and Pleurisy Root, and the most astonishing effects we have seen it have upon our patients, it is our decided and unanimous opinion that it will cure Consumption and Liver Complaint and we do strongly recommend it to the faculty and the public generally.

Dr. B. D. Allen. Dear Sir— For a year past I have been in the habit of prescribing your Balsam of Hoehound, Liverwort and Pleurisy Root to my patients in private practice. I have also used it in the Hospital. It is a remedy of great efficacy in affections of the Lungs and Liver. In cases of Consumption, Cough, Asthma, and Bronchitis, I have found it a very efficacious, and I believe it is prescribed very generally by the profession.
